

CONNECTING THE DOTS

A detailed crosswalk of CYCCB Competencies and the Developmental Assets®

ABSTRACT

This document details how the Competencies for Professional & Youth Work Practitioners (2010) help nurture development of Developmental Assets® among young people through high-quality child and youth care practice.

AUTHORSHIP

This document was prepared by Tim Duffey, President, Bolster Collaborative, Inc.; member of the Association of Child and Youth Care Practice Board of Directors; and founding member of Youth in Focus. Support has been provided by the Council for Youth Development Bartholomew County and the Child and Youth Care Certification Board. Funding support for this project has been provided by the Custer and Nugent Foundations.

How this document came to be

The state of Indiana, through The Journey Fellowship and the Indiana Youth Services Association (IYSA), is supporting a national credential for child and youth care (CYC) practitioners. This credential is based on a three-tiered system that includes Entry, Associate and Professional Levels that allows practitioners to demonstrate their individual development related to five specific areas of competence – Professionalism, Cultural and Human Diversity, Applied Human Development, Relationship and Communication, and Developmental Practice Methods (https://www.cyccb.org/competencies).

In 2018, the Council for Youth Development (CYD) trained a cohort of 24 community leaders on the Search Institute's® 40 Developmental Assets. Members of this cohort are now able to facilitate the Developmental Assets framework approach within their own organizations and throughout Bartholomew County, Indiana (https://www.cydbartholomew.org/). As efforts continued, CYD and professionals in the youth development field recognized an opportunity to connect this successful social-emotional framework with emerging professional development practices.

It is the belief of the CYD's Professional Development Workgroup that well trained and certified child and youth workers may be better able to assist and support youth in building Developmental Assets. In support of this belief, CYD secured funding to engage a consultant to develop a crosswalk or table that shows the connections between the CYC professional competencies and the 40 Developmental Assets.

From the President of CYCCB

Connecting the Dots is a significant effort to bring research informed understanding of assets into more general use across the field of child and youth work practice. As such, it will benefit practitioners in early childhood, juvenile justice, after school, disabilities, congregate and foster care, child welfare, education, and many other settings. We applaud the leadership of the Council for Youth Development Bartholomew County for their vision and investment in a future where children, youth, and families are served by CYC professionals who benefit from the sharing of our best ideas across all settings.

How to use this document

Connecting the Dots is intended to serve as a reference document for practitioners and program managers in the child and youth care field. You will find each of the CYCCB Competencies listed in the left column of the table beginning on the next page. Then, to the right, notation of which Developmental Assets can be associated with that Competency, including the asset type (External or Internal), the asset category, and finally the specific Developmental Asset(s) name. This document can inform individual practice by affirming that efforts to use the Competencies also build child and youth assets. It can also support organizations seeking support for their program efforts by showing funders and supporters how use of professional child and youth care workers, grounded in the Competencies, increases the likelihood for program effectiveness in enhancing the fundamental building blocks of positive youth development.

The connection between the CYCCB Competencies and Search Institute's® Developmental Assets® provided in this document are the perspective of the author alone, based on over 20 years of experience with the asset framework. Attention to any given competency will not quarantee development of the Developmental Asset(s) identified with that competency. However, consistent intentional focus on use of the competency is likely to increase the odds of that asset being nurtured in the children and youth being served. In addition, an organizational structure in which sustained attention and support are provided for staff members to develop, implement, and improve their positive youth development practice is likely to further increase the odds of enhanced asset development.
